

Toni G. Wolfman
Executive in Residence
Executive Education at Bentley and
Women's Leadership Institute
Bentley College

In residence at Bentley College since 2005, Toni Wolfman serves as a resource to faculty, students and alumnae on issues affecting women in business and the professions, is a liaison between the College and business leaders, helps to identify and develop executive education opportunities, and participates in research and programming for current and future women leaders.

She is a well-known and effective advocate for improved corporate governance and for the advancement of women in business. She is a director of and leads the corporate board search effort for The Boston Club (New England's largest organization of business and professional women), is the former President of ION (a national network of organizations dedicated to advancing women to corporate leadership positions), leads Women Corporate Directors–Boston (public company directors who meet periodically to share perspectives on corporate governance issues), and was a long-time director of the Center for Women & Enterprise (the largest entrepreneurial training organization in New England).

From 1977 through 2004, Toni practiced law with Foley Hoag LLP in Boston, where she was a partner in its litigation department focusing on the resolution of complex commercial disputes. While at Foley Hoag, she held various leadership positions in the firm, in several bar associations and in legal services organizations; she also has served on three Supreme Judicial Court committees.

Toni is currently a Trustee and Chair of the Grants Committee of the Boston Bar Foundation and Treasurer of the SJC's Access to Justice Commission. In recent years, she has been recognized for her contributions to the legal profession and to the advancement of women by the Boston Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association of Massachusetts, Greater Boston Legal Services, and The Boston Club.

Toni is a graduate of Smith College and the University of Pennsylvania Law School. She recently joined Smith's Board of Trustees.
